

PEOPLE'S ART GALLERY

2019 EXHIBIT

Carrie R. | Acrylic on canvas

NEIL SCANLAN

Neil is a Centennial artist who specializes in portraits. He enjoys finding the essence in each human face.

Skywalk | Oil painting

MARIE VAUGHN

I am driven by a strong desire to create a positive environment for the viewer by using "bold statements of color". I take inspiration from nature and the colors of the world surrounding me, as well as other artists, their enthusiasm and their spirit. Trying new techniques, diving into new color palettes and new compositions are important factors of my creative process.

Poppy in the Field | Watercolor

KAY NUNNERY

I am a watercolor artist who began taking art lessons after retirement in 2015. My paintings tend to be landscapes, flowers, barns and other interesting buildings. Painting is such a joyful activity and my hope is that my art reflects that - and the beauty that surrounds us here in Colorado.

High Surf | Watercolor

DOROTHY WARLY

Dorothy Warly is a preeminent self-taught artist who has lived in the states for 25 years. Driven by intuition, Dorothy's art is unencumbered by traditional training, values and limitations, and channels a new and exciting genre of expressionism. Her art has brought joy, peace and reflection to all who have had the opportunity to experience her unique work. Please visit www.dorothywarly.com for prints and originals.

Owl in the Meadow | Watercolor

GRANT KARLSGODT

I love to draw in my free time before and after school. I have been creating art for about 4 years, and I go to art lessons every Wednesday. I am 11 years old and in fifth grade, and I go to Lois Lenski Elementary. I like living in Centennial because all the people and neighbors are very thoughtful.

Trees | Acrylic on gallery-wrapped canvas

PAM ROTH O'MARA

Pam Roth O'Mara, who's lived in Centennial since moving to Colorado in 2007, began painting in June 2016. She works primarily with acrylics on stretched canvas. Pam says, "Action and movement are everything. I start with a base coat of one color: blue, red, or yellow. Over which I swipe, dab, and drip other colors and shapes. A piece is done when the colors pop and the elements blend." See more of her work at www.pjomara.com.

Butterflies | Pastels, pencil

CHARLOTTE HOBSON

Charlotte is 6 years old, and in Kindergarten at Colorado Academy. She loves living in Centennial in the Heritage Greens neighborhood because of her neighborhood friends and community activities. She has always enjoyed creating art, and in particular, working with pastels and paint. Additionally, Charlotte dances and figure skates competitively, and loves swimming, tumbling, and spending time with her friends.

Cat and Mouse on Pillows | Fabric, hand appliqued

LINDA SPROUSE

Linda has been quilting for over 30 years, and does both free motion and computerized long arm quilting as a business. She creates both pieced and appliquéd quilts in traditional and contemporary styles. The cat and mouse wall-hanging was inspired by a greeting card. It is hand appliqued and machine quilted. Linda has been an Arapahoe County resident for 30 years and has lived in Centennial since its inception. She can be reached at sprouse9358@msn.com.

Yampa Valley Winter | Oil on canvas

DAVID HARMS

David has been a long time musician, actor and resident of Centennial. So by the early 2000's he found himself immersed in the fine art world with galleries, awards and plenty of sales to add to his expanding art/entertainment resume! David's paintings can be seen in fine art galleries in New Mexico and Colorado or can be viewed online at www.davidharms.com and on his facebook artist page <http://www.facebook.com/davidharmsfineart/>.

Bee Here Now | Prismacolor pencils

AMY SMITH

Bee Here Now is one of a series of drawings produced in somatic trauma therapy, a wonderful and effective process where negative thoughts and emotions are described visually in one drawing, then resolved in the next. Amy Smith has happily lived in Centennial for two years but is a lifelong Coloradan. At 64 years old, she is remembering her life as an artist and seeking to reclaim a creative life.

Mirage | Acrylic painting

TERRY "PHOEBE" FLAGG

I have lived in Centennial since it was founded. I started painting two years ago and all I have learned has been from online videos. "Mirage" was focusing on part of a lesson taught by Donna Munro. I liked the effect of painting with black and white gesso for the underpainting and this is based on that technique.

Bee Here Now | Prismacolor pencils

AMY SMITH

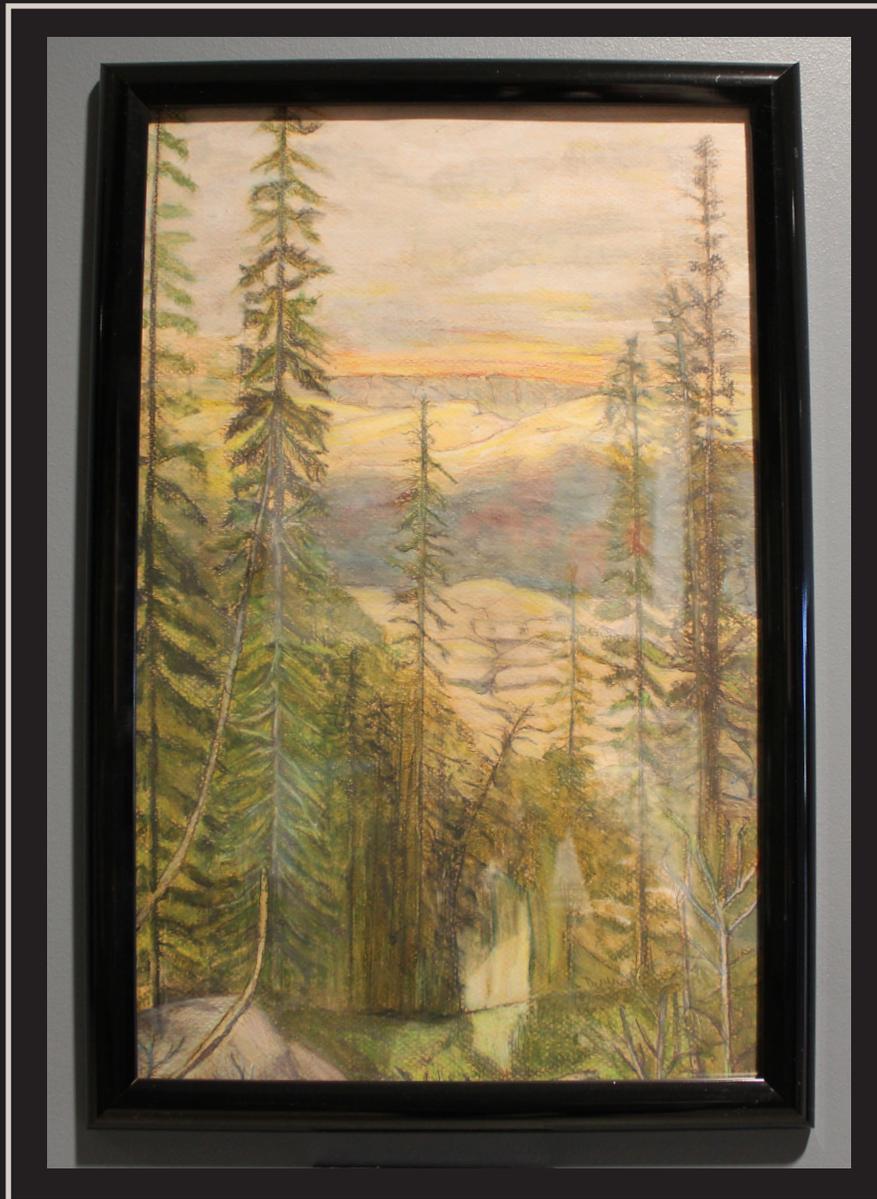

Bee Here Now is one of a series of drawings produced in somatic trauma therapy, a wonderful and effective process where negative thoughts and emotions are described visually in one drawing, then resolved in the next. Amy Smith has happily lived in Centennial for two years but is a lifelong Coloradan. At 64 years old, she is remembering her life as an artist and seeking to reclaim a creative life.

Salted Air | Acrylic painting

ELLEN R. ALBERT

Ellen Redgate Albert has been a Centennial resident since 1977. She received a BA in Fine Arts from Anna Maria College in Paxton, MA. Ellen vacations every summer on Cape Cod, where this painting was created. "Salted Air" attempts to highlight the contrast between immovable fabricated structures and undulating beach grass in the salted sea breeze.

Gateway to Paradise | Colored Pencil

LEANN DONAHOE

Leann Donahoe started painting in her early 20s in Arizona. She was mentored by local artists Patty Du'pre and Ken Ingels who ignited her infatuation with oils. After moving to Colorado, she balanced artwork with family responsibilities and her insurance career. Now retired, she is focused on various mediums for portraits, character studies, pets and landscapes. Leann can be reached at leanndonahoe@gmail.com.

Sunflowers | Digital print

JAY WORTHAM

Jay R Wortham has spent thirty-five years pushing other artists to find their own unique voices. Now that he is over half a century old himself, he has finally found a voice of his own. He paints imagery that is captivating, retro styled with contemporary tools, forcing the viewer to juggle their own conflicting perceptions as they experience his works.

To a Wild Rose | Photograph on canvas

REBECCA DICKERSON

Rebecca Dickerson has been interested in photography for most of her life, but has been working seriously at it since 2003. Her passion is finding beauty in unexpected places and sharing it with others. Her other work can be seen and purchased at www.dickersonphotography.com.